A MURDEROUS DARKEY.

A Colored Tramp Assaults Conductor Walden With a Knife.

Conductor Walden of the west end of the Missouri Pacific, had a little unpleasant experience yesterday morning as he pulled out of Kansas City. As the train passed Grand avenue a darkey boarded the hind end of the caboose. When informed by Mr. Walden that he could not ride, he whipped out a long bladed knife and attempted to use it. As the darkey struck, Walden threw up his arm and warded off the blow, receiving a slight cut on the back of his hand. At this instant the darkey jumped off the caboose and disappeared. The cut was not sufficient to cause Mr. Walden to lay off and he took his run out as usual.

Not the Man Wanted.

Anxious For Turlington's Hanging.

John O. Turlington, who was sentenced by Judge Edwards about two months ago to be hanged yesterday, has been granted a stay of execution. Nothing will be done until the supreme court acts on the case. The people at Boonville are anxious to have Turlington hanged as soon as possible.

Feltz Brothers or Feltz Brothers?

It is believed that the parties under arrest at Tipton, who were suspected to be the Otterville train robbers, are the Feltz brothers, one of whom the readers of the BAZOO will remember, killed "Squire Higgins at Higginsville, during fair week at that place. $1,000 is the total reward now offered for murderer Feltz' apprehension.

Another Horse Killed.

On Sunday afternoon a horse belonging to Mrs. W. T. Byer, and leased to Daniel Ridenour, was grazing in Mr. Ridenour's lot. When to use the animal he sent a boy to catch it, and the horse to escape capture tried to jump over a picket gate but failed in the effort and came down on the pickets, which penetrated the belly and sides of the horse. The animal survived the wounds until yesterday when it died.

Held for the Criminal Court.

The trial of E. M. Scott who is charged with shooting at Conductor Butts with intent to kill, which was in progress as the BAZOO went to press Friday afternoon was finished late that evening and resulted in Scott being bound over to await the action of the grand jury. His bond was placed at $300, but being unable to fill it he was placed in jail.

After Scott gets through with this case he will have to answer to the charge of stealing from Conductor Lawson's caboose and in all probability he will remain with Sheriff Smith for some time.

A Valuable Horse Killed.

D. M. Williams, the Main street agriculture dealer, lost a valuable five year old black mare in a very singular manner on Wednesday evening. Mr. Williams mounted the horse to ride home when she commenced to act as if she wanted to "buck," and he dismounted and turning to Henry Selsor, asked him to ride the horse. Selsor vaulted into the saddle and as he did so the animal reared upwards and fell over backwards. The horse's head hit a boulder in the street, killing it instantly. Mr. Williams prized the horse highly, it was a good roadster and could trot a mile in about three minutes.

Written for SUNDAY MORNING BAZOO.

GOD'S PLAN.

The stream of life never flows so calm
But some rock bars its way;
And many a heart half-broken lies,
"Neath smiles which seemeth gay,
Our sorrows are the worst indeed,
Because we know them ours;
But hear the tale our neighbors tell—
Their often anguished hours.
And we can well believe not all
Of grief and fret and woe
To us do come, these touch all streams
That to God's ocean flow.
And why and wherefore we shall know,
When safe at last the light
Shines from the harbor infinite
And maketh wrong things right.

—ROSA PEARLE.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

Thieves Discovered in the Rear of Hotel Derieux and Fired Upon by the Proprietor.

At 10:30 o'clock last night the porter of Hotel Derieux, who sleeps in a rear room, was awakened by some one trying to break in a rear door. Slipping out of bed he went to the office of the hotel and told the proprietor, J. T. Derieux, that a couple of men were forcing in the rear door. Mr. Derieux, arming himself with a revolver, slipped out the front door and walked cautiously along the west side of the hotel until he reached the north-west corner of the building. Looking around the corner he saw two men standing a few feet from the building. Stepping out in full view of the men he asked them what they wanted. They made no reply but started on a run, one going south and the other going north. Landlord Derieux drew a bead on the fellow going north and fired but missed the flying target. The fellow that ran south fell into a trap and Mr. Derieux hoped to capture him by quickly going around in front of the hotel, but when he arrived there the fellow had given him the slip. When the thief ran south he was confronted with a smooth lattice fence, ten feet high with no chance for foot or hand hold. But he was in a pen that he had to get out of, and that quickly. Looking around he saw a small tree and this he used as a ladder. Quickly climbing this he found himself on a level with the top of the fence, and, swinging over, he caught the top rail and vaulted over the obstruction onto the sidewalk below. He partially fell as he struck but quickly gaining his feet he fled eastward and disappeared at Lamine avenue.

The police were attracted by the shot and a squad of them spent several hours in searching through North Sedalia. As the men stood in the shadow of the house Mr. Derieux did not get a good enough view of them to furnish a description of the robbers to the police and they had to work blindfolded. A theory was advanced to-day that the men were intending to fire the hotel for the purpose of drawing attention so that they could do bolder work which they may have planned.

The Cattle Disease.

In answer to the cattle disease scare, Dr. Paul Paquin, state veterinary surgeon, has telegraphed to Gov. Francis as follows:

Columbia, Mo., September 11.—Gov. D. R. Francis, Jefferson City, Mo.: My circular was needed to counteract the ill-effects of injudicious and erroneous newspaper articles, and for the people's instruction. The disease was too scattered to be treated otherwise. Secretary Rusk does not know all the circumstances. I made only a statement of facts, and gave sanitary measures and treatment to save our own people from losses. I can not retract, in justice to the afflicted. I could scarcely have waited even if I had known of pending negotiations, which would certainly not hinder. No more need of alarm than for colt distemper. Too much ado will hurt more abroad than our action or the disease itself, which is not fatal. The disease is only in five counties.

(Signed) PAUL PAQUIN,
State Veterinarian.

THE TIPTON SUSPECTS.

The Trainmen Fail to Identify the Thieves as the Otterville Train Robbers.

From Walt Monroe, who arrived in the city on this evening's train from Tipton, Mo., a BAZOO representative learned that Sam Avery, John Sullivan and Jas. Mitchell the express messenger, baggagemen and colored porter who were on the Missouri Pacific train that was robbed near Otterville, arrived in Tipton this morning and were taken into the presence of the Hamilton brothers, who have been in custody at that point for the past few days. They did not identify the prisoners, saying one of them was about the right size but they were not the right parties. Mr. Monroe stated that the prisoners were undoubtedly crooks, but that it will be hard work to convict them of any crime. They will be held awhile longer to await future developments.

SUICIDE OR MURDER?

The Finding of a Bottle Containing a Drug Revives An Old Story.

It will be remembered by the readers of the BAZOO, some few months ago, of the finding of a body of a man in Banks's pasture about two miles north of town, a full account of which was published in this paper at the time. Just how the man met his death it has never been determined, but some are of the opinion that he was foully dealt with by a notorious woman, who has lived in Sedalia for some time.

The finding of a vial, a few days ago, in the pasture near where the dead man was found, containing a small amount of laudanum, led some to believe that it might be a case of suicide, but a careful perusal of the following facts has undoubtedly thrown a different light on the case.

About a week ago Mr. Banks instructed one of his employees, a colored man, to drive some hogs out of the pasture, which he did, and on his return asked Mr. Banks if it had ever been found out what killed that man in his pasture to which he replied in the negative. The darkey then informed Mr. Banks that he had picked up a bottle near where the dead man was found and set it up against a tree. Some days later Mr. Banks himself, passing by the tree, saw the bottle, and remembering what the darkey had told him, picked it up and took it to the house. The bottle contained just enough laudanum to tell what it is. Mr. Banks brought the bottle to this city and left it with W. E. Bard, who says it undoubtedly contains laudanum. Mr. Banks is of the opinion that the bottle was placed there for a purpose and has nothing to do with the killing of the dead man.

Death of Mrs. J. A. Wyman.

Mrs. J. Alexander Wyman died at her husband's residence, 902 East Fifth street, last evening at 6:10 o'clock, of heart disease.

This news will be a severe shock to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman in this city, as it was not generally known that Mrs. Wyman was seriously ill. Indeed, Mr. Wyman, himself, was not expecting his beloved wife's death. She had been troubled with heart disease for a year or more. For ten days past she had been confined to her bed with an attack of that ailment. In the last two or three days she had grown better and expected to soon be out, but last evening she suddenly grew worse and soon expired, of heart failure.

Mrs. Wyman was a most estimable lady. She was born in New York City, and her maiden name was Ella M. Gregory. She had lived in Sedalia for sixteen years. She has two brothers and other relatives living in New York. The brothers have been telegraphed for and are expected to arrive here in time for the funeral.

Undertaker David Ramsey has charge of the remains and has embalmed them. The time of the funeral has not been set yet.

Run Into by a Motor Car.

This afternoon as car No. 11 passed second street on its way to East Sedalia a team belonging to Geo. Hoffert, which was on the track ahead of the car became frightened and started to back. The car was stopped by Motorman Cluffit as quick as possible, but the team backed into the car, resulting in the breaking of the neck-yoke. Mr. Hoffert is a little deaf and the probabilities are that he did not hear the going of the car.
